Faculty Positions in the Finance Subject Area

London Business School has junior and senior positions available in the Finance department, starting in Autumn 2024. All fields within finance will be considered.

Research and Teaching Requirements

London Business School places strong emphasis on both research and teaching quality. Faculty are expected to publish articles in leading academic journals. The annual teaching load is comparable with top US schools, with a reduced load for new junior faculty in their first year.

Career Progression

All junior positions are tenure track. Decisions about contract renewal and promotion are based on individual performance. London Business School salaries are competitive with those at top US business schools.

Environment

London Business School has an active Finance department with 19 members of faculty: Suleyman Basak, Maxime Bonelli, Svetlana Bryzgalova, João Cocco, Ian Cooper, Rebecca DeSimone, James Dow, Alex Edmans, Julian Franks, Francisco Gomes, Roberto Gomez-Cram, Marco Grotteria, Christopher Hennessy, Howard Kung, Lakshmi Naaraayanan, Narayan Naik, Anna Pavlova, Stephen Schaefer, and Henri Servaes.

London Business School is a graduate school of the University of London, and a leading international centre of excellence in management education and research. It has a beautiful location in Regent's Park in the heart of London. The School attracts outstanding students on its MBA, Masters in Finance, Masters in Financial Analysis, Masters of Analytics and Management, Masters in Management, Sloan Fellowship, PhD, and Executive Education programmes, a proportion of which specialise in finance.
